
A one-time code can still be relayed live unless authentication is bound to the real origin.